Elba Hospital Board Takes Steps To Begin Construction Soon

The Elba Hospital Board opened bids last Tuesday afternoon and awarded the Eufaula Concrete Company, general contractors of Eufaula, Ala., the construction of the new Elba hospital. Total construction cost is $510,622.00.

The hospital board and city officials worked together to secure for Elba this hospital. An allocation of $218,000 in federal money for hospital construction assured Coffee County its only such public facility. Coffee County's only hospital is privately owned and located in Enterprise.

Construction of the 28-bed hospital should begin within the near future and will take about a year to complete. The State Board of Health made the federal money grant available early in 1960.

Elba's share of the local hospital will be taken care of from a sales-tax fund which has been collected during the past five years and will continue to be collected for time being.

Burmeister and Beale of Mobile are architects for the facility, which will be located on property along Smith Street off the Brantley Highway, near the City Cemetery.

According to the Chairman, the Elba board has received more than $120,000 in sales tax receipts over the past few years.

New Swine Laboratory Awarded To Elba By Dept. of Agriculture

$60,000 Per Year Appropriated For Next Two Years

The state's new swine disease diagnostic laboratory will be established here in Elba, according to an announcement by the Agriculture Department Tuesday.

Mayor Dozier Roberts received the information Tuesday morning.

During the last session of the Legislature, the sum of $60,000 per year for the next two fiscal years was appropriated for the establishment and operation of the Swine Diagnostic Laboratory. The bill provided that the State Board of Agriculture should determine where the laboratory was to be located. Eleven counties asked for the laboratory.

The State Board met in Montgomery Tuesday and they decided that the laboratory should be located in Coffee County at Elba. This site was selected because of the fact that it is in the center of the hog producing area and they felt that it could serve more hogs.

The appropriation was not for the construction of a building, but was for rent of a building and for equipment and personnel to operate it and the state will rent the laboratory building. Coffee County authorities and the Elba Mayor and Council assured the board that a suitable building will be erected.

State Veterinarian J. G. Miller said the laboratory will be staffed by hog specialists concentrating on swine disease. But personnel also will delve into other animal health problems as the need arises, he said.

"Big Jim" Enters Race For Governor 3rd Term Stressing Law and Order

Begins Campaign In "Branch Heads" Of Local Area

James E. "Big Jim" Folsom

For State Senate

JACKSON W. STOKES

Jackson W. Stokes of Elba has qualified with the State Democratic Committee as a candidate in the Democratic Primary Elections to be held on Tuesday, the first day of May, for the office of State Senator from the 25th Senatorial District.

Stokes is 33 years of age, married to the former Carolyn Vaughan, of Elba and they have four children, David, age 12, Clint, 7, Susan, 5, and Jackie, 3.

He has served as a member of the House of Representatives from Coffee County for two terms. While in the Legislature he served on the House Education and Public Welfare Committees. He was elected to the House for his first term at the age of 21, the youngest man to ever be elected and serve in the legislature.

Native of Coffee

He is a native of Coffee County, the youngest of ten children. He is the son of J. M. Stokes and the late Anna Nelson Stokes. He is a graduate of the Brantley High School and attended Troy State Teachers College for two years. He received an L. L. B. degree from the University of Alabama in January 1953.

Stokes is a popular attorney in Elba and is a member of the Coffee County and State Bar Association. He was elected "Man of the Year" by the Enterprise Ledger in 1953.

Folsom is speaking this morning Thursday at Brantley, at 11 o'clock and tonight at Headland Home High School at 7 o'clock. He is scheduled to speak tomorrow morning, Friday, Feb. 2nd, in Opp at 11 o'clock.

has planted both his big feet firmly in the 1962 campaign for Governor of Alabama. Folsom, 53, and in apparent good health, made the announcement from his home in Cullman.

Sporting a new pair of size 16 boots (purchased during the recent snow), Folsom said he would make a vigorous campaign of the "branch-heads" before the May 1 primary. Rising at 4 a.m., as is his custom, he has stretched his regular morning walk to 7 miles to get in shape.

"I chose my home to make the announcement that I will run because the home is symbolic," Folsom said. "The home is the foundation and cornerstone of freedom, democracy and states rights. States rights does not mean that wild men shall enter homes and drag members of the family out for a fleecing party. Nor does states rights mean that wild men shall run up and down streets using ball bats and lead pipes for blood letting spears."

"States rights means law and order in all fields—the right of the State to control the Nation, all Guard schools, the highway department, health department, and all other state agencies," said Folsom.

"A major feature of my campaign will be to stress that law and order will prevail when I am Governor," Folsom vowed. "Without law and order we would be denied the right of trial by jury, handed down to us by the Magna Carta. Without law and order, we would return to head chopping, hanging and the guillotine."

"Big Jim" now a grandfather, has four of his eight children in Cullman schools. His eldest daughter, Mrs. Robert Lichtenstein, of New Jersey, presented him with a granddaughter, Melissa, now five months old. Melissa, his second eldest daughter, is transferring from the University of Arkansas and Sacred Heart College, Cullman, to the University of Alabama for the next semester, where she will be a sophomore. The other children are James E. Jr., 12, Jack 11, Emma 10, Scrappy 8. All attend Cullman City Schools. Others are Josh 5, and Lala 2.

Folsom is speaking this morning Thursday at Brantley, at 11 o'clock and tonight at Headland Home High School at 7 o'clock. He is scheduled to speak tomorrow morning, Friday, Feb. 2nd, in Opp at 11 o'clock.

Former Lt. Gov. Allen Announces Candidacy

Former Lieutenant Governor, James B. Allen, officially announced today that he will be a candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

Allen, a Golden attorney, pointed out the need of the people of Alabama for experienced leadership during this critical time.

Said Allen, "Whoever is elected governor will have to look to the legislature to share and put through his program. It is up to me to help the legislature enact a constructive program that will be in the interest of the people of Alabama, and at the same time see that their rights and interests are protected."

Allen pointed out that his record of public service clearly showed that he has always been in the forefront of those who stand for good government in Alabama.

He first held public office as a member of the House of Representatives in the State Legislature in 1918 and was re-elected in 1922. He resigned from the House in 1941 to enter the Armed Forces.

After combat service in the U. S. Navy, Allen was elected State Senator from Etowah and St. Clair Counties. During his term as Senator, he was named the outstanding member of the State Legislature.

In 1950, Allen was elected Lieutenant Governor. While serving as Lieutenant Governor, he instituted the television program, "Legislative Report" (now, "Meet the Press"), in order to let the people of Alabama know the legislative process and the people of Alabama. In 1954, he ran for Governor and finished third in a field of eight candidates.

JAMES B. ALLEN

Of his candidacy, Allen stated: "I feel the experience that I gained while serving before as Lieutenant Governor will enable me to render a greater service to the people during another term."

Allen said he is a member of the House of Representatives in the State Legislature in 1918 and was re-elected in 1922. He resigned from the House in 1941 to enter the Armed Forces.

RAMBLING ROSES AND FLYING BRICKS

By EARL TUCKER

During the near zero weather of the past week I got to thinking, which puts me in a powerful strain. It is something I try to avoid as much as possible and I have been mighty successful over the past half century. There is no way to tell how little thinking I have done but I wouldn't be at all surprised if I'm not close to a record of some sort.

With a lot of time on my hands my thinking drifted from one thing to another and when I wound up this morning my thinking had covered just about every subject from birds and rocking chairs to people and pipes.

People are nice at times and this is very refreshing to learn. Last Tuesday afternoon found me at the Coliseum in Montgomery where the world peace.

Frink To Enter Race For State Auditor

Betty Frink has qualified as a candidate for the office of State Auditor. She promises to campaign in every county, city and town in the State and see as many people as possible.

Since being elected Secretary of State, Betty Frink has been busy with the present State Auditor, which she feels will help her greatly in the operation of the office.

Betty Frink cannot run for Secretary of State to succeed herself, because of the Constitution. Frink believes that while serving as Secretary of State that the office was run with the highest of efficiency and they have carried out all their duties without any increase in the budget.

The State Auditors office is not a policy making office and segregation will not be an issue, however, Mrs. Frink feels that her views on this question should be stated firmly and clearly. She states that she is 100% for segregation in all forms between the races. She believes that the Negro race should be given every opportunity to advance with in their own race. She believes that it would be better to close the schools than to have them integrated.

The Suzanne Wesley Missionary Circle of the Methodist Church held its second January meeting on January 29 at the home of Mrs. L. F. Inman.

Mrs. Jake Labert Morrow, president, presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Arlan Brown gave the treasurer's report on talks on the Latin American countries and their importance in the world of today and tomorrow. Mrs. Lawrence displayed maps, pamphlets, pictures, flags and handmade materials from the various countries to highlight her talk.

Mrs. Russell Hippiestel then brought the group up to date on the O.A.S. conference now going on in Punta del Este, Uruguay, with notes taken from various news media. She also pointed out the interest of the Methodist church in the O.A.S. which is trying to prevent the infiltration of communism into the Western Hemisphere.

The long banquet table was centered with a low floral arrangement, and the cards mark the guests' places added a decorated note.

Mrs. Dyess wore a becoming fur-trimmed suit of gold-colored wool.

Three included with the honorees were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stephens, Mrs. Camilla Hinton, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Sellers, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Butler and the host and hostess.

If a spot is hard to remove, mix a cloth with cleaning fluid and hold it firmly against the area. This may loosen the particles even better than rubbing.

After frying fish, remove the odor by pouring a little vinegar in the frying pan while it's still hot.

USE GROWTH HABITS OF PLANTS FOR GOOD PRUNING

Pruning is the most neglected practice in home ground maintenance. We will do a good job of moving the lawn, fertilizing and watering plants, edging walks and drives and keeping borders attractive, but the presence of numerous over-sized plants is evidence pruning is too often neglected. Likewise, the great number of once attractive plants that have lost their natural form by improper pruning is ample evidence pruning is not only neglected but that we often do a poor job of attempts to prune.

Good pruning is not necessarily an art. However, it consists of more than simply whacking the tops of plants. Knowing the growth habits of plants is helpful in good pruning practices. Here are a few general points in using the growth habits of plants to achieve good results from pruning.

(1) All growth originates for a bud. Make all cuts just above a bud. Wood left beyond the bud cannot produce growth and will die. Dead wood is always a hazard to the health of a plant.

(2) New growth will follow the general direction the terminal or foremost bud is pointing. This fact may be applied to direct future growth. By using it we may prune to make plants more compact and to direct growth away from walks and buildings.

(3) Flowering and berrying plants bear their crops on new wood, either one or two years old. To continue bearing, new fruiting wood must be produced each year. The amount of fruiting wood is increased by removing the terminal buds from stems. When this is done, nature causes several lateral buds to produce strong growth, thus providing more new growth than the terminal bud would produce.

(4) While growth normally occurs from either terminal or lateral buds, when these are destroyed emergency buds quickly develop to produce new growth.
